PRESS DIGEST

FALKLANDS

Treatment:

D/Star: Front page picture of QE2 sailing home off Land's End with 700 survivors from 3 ships.

Sun: 70 dead; toll fear grows over blitzed Sir Galahad; 'Mug's War' clanger by top Tory.

Mirror: The toll is grim; Thatcher warns of considerable casualties;
Britain promised a victory soon.

Express: Onward now to Victory; the brave men of Galahad.

Mail: The Agony and the Hope; QE2 sails up the Channel; Astiz flies home first class.

Telegraph: Galahad toll warning by Thatcher; Nott expects victory.

Guardian: Nott: We can't say number of dead; Thatcher hints at 'considerable' toll on Galahad; Defence drops security blanket; Task Force makes good damage.

Times: Nott says losses will not delay retaking Islands.

FT: Falklands plan unchanged by landing-ships attack.

Comment:

D/Star: Mr Nott's plaudits for journalists should not blind us to the public relations deficiency of his own Ministry. His words will be greeted wryly by the men he praised. Far too many instances of Ministry dissembling, withholding, manipulation. Still massive mutual suspicion.

Sun: Astiz should go down on his knees in thanks that he was taken prisoner by a civilised country - given mercy he does not deserve - a murdered and a torturer.

Mirror: Under heading "Nothing but the Truth" says the public knows something serious happened on Tuesday to units but they have been told very little by MoD. Ministers' words compound confusion and fear. Mr Nott should tell the whole truth as quickly as possible.

Express: If we are poised to go forward it is none too soon! Must be no letting up. Casualties will not weaken our resolve. But not clear why MoD has been so tardy. Does the country and its cause no good by being tardy. Task Force can take it - and so can we.

Mail: Feature by Anthony Lejeune on bad blood between journalists and MoD; he says if public relations are neglected or wrongly handled the efforts of the men in the field may be wasted or betrayed. Professional skill and firm political direction are required. PR as well as Naval policy will have to be drastically overhauled in the light of the Falklands.

Times: Considering Pope's visit to Argentina, says whatever he says about the war, the military Government will try to associate itself with him to resolve its legitimacy. Argentina will receive a boost to its morale. Longer term, big challenge to US diplomacy. Will now give priority to mending Latin American offences. But here we need a new policy for the Americas as a whole.

FT: Says psychologically it's important that, despite misgivings among some Continental powers, Britain was not criticised at NATO for diverting warships from the North Atlantic to the Falklands.

Military:

- You warn of considerable casualties; attention drawn to different reasons given by you and Mr Nott for holding back information; many MPs uneasy about toll; at least 7 Argentine bombers shot down; Select Committee to inquire into handling of news and coverage.
- FT says death toll may now exceed 1,000.
- Mr Nott promises victory in a short time.
- Fears that Argentine may use Port Stanley residents as hostages; paras pity young conscripts.
- Peru reported to have sent 10 Mirages to Argentina; Mail says Argentine has re-stocked with a shipment of Skyhawks from Israel.
- Brazil releases Vulcan, though minus missiles and with undertakings about its future use.

- Astiz on his way home; Robert Adley MP wants him prosecuted for crimes against international law; Mail hopes his release will help 2 journalists detained in Ushuah.

In Argentina:

- Junta turns Pope's visit into a PR circus; Galtieri will see him first and last; junta will meet him 6 times.
- Public opinion poll shows 80% want to continue war if there is no diplomatic settlement.
- Telegraph says Argentine economy was in accelerated decline before Falklands invasion.

In Falklands:

- Sun says Islanders in Port Stanley have been suffering under Menendez - blustering bully.
- Britain appeals to Red Cross to help Islanders in Port Stanley.
- Mail says jubilent welcome for liberators - and roast lamb.

Politics:

- Jock Bruce Gardyne, Minister of State, Treasury, claims Britain has no stomach for warning letter written in early May.

Diplomatic:

- Telegraph notes lack of NATO communique on Falklands.
- Your low key clash with Calvo Sotelo noted, especially in Times.
- Malcolm Rutherford, FT, says real lesson on Falklands is quite different from the way thinking is going in both major parties - namely, that we need more internationalism not less and more effective alliances rather than more national self reliance.

Media:

- Mr Nott praises media work in Falklands as absolutely magnificent.

Cost:

- Cost of campaign so far could run into £1bn, split equally between running costs and replacement.
- £ falls to $1.76 on bad news from Falklands.

Trade:

- You order inquiry into help given by multi-national companies to Argentine.
